A fourth national legal fraternity came into being at George Washington University last week with the initiation of twenty-six students of the Law School into Gamma Eta Gamma. National officers of the fraternity conducted the installation of the new Beta Eta chapter Saturday night at the Shoreham Hotel.

At the same time, Senator Felix Herbert of Rhode Island and William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives, were initiated as honorary members of the organization.

Members of the fraternity in Congress and of the Washington bar attended the ceremonies and assisted in the installation.

Twenty-ninth Chapter

Beta Eta chapter is the twenty-ninth organization of Gamma Eta Gamma, second oldest legal fraternity in the country. It was founded in 1901 at the University of Maine.

The formal initiation preceded a banquet held in the Palm Room of the hotel. First Assistant District Attorney John W. Fidelity acted as toastmaster and called upon several of the prominent members for short after-dinner talks.

A meeting of the chapter was held after the banquet, at which time William Holden was elected president.

Dr. White Submits Plan For District Hospitals

Meets With New American Medical Association Ruling

Dr. Charles Stanley White has submitted a plan to the hospitals of the District of Columbia for a post-graduate school for internes.

The American Medical Association has passed a ruling, stating that all hospitals in order to be recognized as Class A, must, among other things, give instruction to the internes other than their routine work. To cope with this ruling, Dr. White has suggested the following plan:

The internes of the various Washington hospitals will be given a lecture once a week at the District of Columbia Medical Society Building. These lectures are to be supervised by representatives from the hospitals, and will be given by a number of doctors in Washington. It will be compulsory for the internes to attend the lectures if not on duty. By paying a fee of two dollars for the year, the internes will be entitled to attend the meetings of the Medical Society of the District of Columbia, which will follow the lectures, to attend the banquets and smokers of the medical society and receive the bulletin of the society.

Five Outstanding Advantages

There are many advantages to this plan, the five most outstanding being:

1. The plan complies with the requirements of the American Medical Association.
2. Time is saved by lecturing to all the internes in one group.
3. The internes are able to have lectures from the best men in the city.
4. The internes will become acquainted with each other and ideas from the different schools will be discussed.
5. The internes will become acquainted with the chiefs of hospitals other than their own.

Simpson Chosen Manager Of Intramural For Year

Carol Simpson has been appointed manager of the intramural activities of the W. A. A., according to an announcement made last Wednesday by Professor Ruth Atwell, director of Physical Education for women.

At a brief meeting of the Intramural Board this noon the new manager will take office. Announcement will be made of the schedule for the February ping pong doubles tournament.

Carol Simpson is a junior in the School of Education. As manager of archery she is a member of the W. A. A. board; she is also on the rifle squad, and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority. She was the star of the Petition. Pondera, the archery team making the highest score in the 1929 fall match, and was appointed assistant manager of archery last spring.

This mid-term appointment was necessitated by the resignation of Wilhelm Gude in November. Virginia Gummel, treasurer of the Intramural Board, has been acting as manager.

Professors Visit G. W. In Architectural Survey

Professor Roy Childs Jones of the University of Minnesota, and Professor Frank Huntington Bosworth, Jr., of Cornell University, visited George Washington last week in a preliminary survey of architectural education for the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture, under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation.

Their visit on the campus was marked by a smoker given in their honor by Ammon Temple of the Scarab Architectural Fraternity in the Division of Fine Arts Building. Mr. Albert L. Harris, Municipal Architect for the City of Washington; Professor Frank Artemus Hitecock, of the School of Engineering, members of the Faculty of the Fine Arts Division, and students of architecture, were guests.

Discussions were given by the guests of honor and by Professor Norris I. Crandall, director of the Division of Fine Arts, after which an open forum was held for the students.

Owens Collaborates On Text With R. E. Taylor

"Elements of Accounting" Written With Taylor Of Cincinnati

Professor Richard Norman Owens, who has for three years been on the faculty of the accounting department of George Washington, has recently collaborated with R. Emmett Taylor, professor of Accounting and Business Law at the University of Cincinnati in writing an elementary accounting text book, "Elements of Accounting," published by Leon C. Marshall.

Contributing to the logical development and the good organization of this book are six parts each of which consists of several chapters. The main divisions are: I. Accounting Reports as a Source of Information. II. The Two Most Important Accounting Reports and the Information Which They Contain. III. How the Information for the Reports is Collected and Recorded. IV. How the Balance Sheet and the Statement of Income and Expenses are Prepared. V. Special Problems of Partnerships and Corporations. VI. The Use of Information in the Various Activities of Business.

There are three features of this text which are of great value in making it a teachable text:

1. Balance sheet method of approach.
2. Treatment of accounting as a tool of management, without omitting proper consideration of bookkeeping technique.
3. Relearning is unnecessary.

Many features such as the illustrations, diagrams and charts all worked in with the material are results of the three years' work which Professor Owens has put into this book.

Professor Owens has also done other work of interest. In 1923 his book, "Interest Rates and Stock Speculation," was published. In this he collaborated with C. O. Hardy. He has also drawn up a tax system chart for the District of Columbia used in "Federal and State Tax System." Aside from these books, he has written various articles for accounting magazines.

Baptists Offer Prizes For Approved Essays

The Baptist Sunday Board, Nashville, Tennessee, offers a $150 cash prize for the Baptist student in each state of the South who writes the most approved essay on the subject "Foreign Missions—The Present Crisis and a Future Program." Two extra South-wide prizes of $100 and $50 will be given for the first and second best essays among those winning first awards in the various states.

Conditions for the contest are as follows: 1. The paper is to be handed in on or before April 1, 1931. 2. It must consist of approximately 10,000 words and be typewritten on paper 8 by 11 inches (uniform letterhead size). 3. It must have the merits of a literary production; 4. It must reflect an accurate knowledge and analysis of the subject; 5. The contest is limited to all Baptist students, candidates for an A. B. degree, or its equivalent, in any four-year or Junior college. Students in all Baptist schools, tax-supported, private schools, or otherwise, are eligible.

In this contest the District of Columbia is to be considered as a state, provided that at least five contestants are entered from this area.

Any eligible student who is interested in further information should get in communication with the local branch of the Baptist Student Union.

Reporter Investigates Future Union Building

Pokes Skeptically And Finds All Rooms Guaranteed

Curiosity killed Monsieur the Cat. But after hearing three charming speakers cut off ten whole minutes of French, English and history classes this week, who could resist investigating?

One wanted to know if the newly purchased Student Union Building did have four parlors, a kitchen and washroom on the first floor; six rooms on the second, and four third-story rooms.

One stood with one's bare fingers hanging out, quite sure one was doing wrong. Perhaps one should not go barging in on unsuspecting house-holders, saying, "May I see your house, please?" I want to look at the four parlors, kitchen and washroom on the first floor, the six rooms on the second floor, and the four third-story rooms.

Perhaps one should not conduct oneself in this unseemly manner. But— one did. One poked one's snooty nose into each of the four parlors and every one of the rooms. One found also two stairways in 714 which have hitherto been unmentioned.

After presenting one's self to the Mistress of the House and being then presented to the Master, one heard words which sounded melodious in inquisitive ears.

Said the former owners of 714: "We have lived here forty years, and have been so happy. I am sure we are going to miss our house. We hope the G. W. students get as much pleasure in it as we have had."

As one tumbled excitedly down the stairs of 714, one was sure one had done quite wrong, but one was terribly glad.

GROUND BROKEN FOR UNION FEB. 1

Marvin Promises Speed In Building As Weihe Draws Up Plans

Ground will be broken for the addition to the new Student Union Building at 714 Twenty-first Street about February 1, according to President Marvin. Plans are now being drawn in the Division of Fine Arts for the structure which will be built on the side and in the rear of the present building.

According to Jo Howard, president of the Student Council, about $5,700.00 was pledged by the students of the University in the two days last week in which a canvass of the classes was made by speakers from the Student Council and the Public Speaking Department. These pledges have been turned over to the Bursar's office for collection with next semester's tuition.

In ten days, therefore, the first definitely visible piece of constructive work on the Union Building should be a reality. It is also promised by President Marvin that all construction work will be completed and the building furnished and ready for use no later than May 1. The same speed is forecast as was demonstrated in the removal of the Engineering Laboratory from the campus and its reconstruction on the southeast corner of Twenty-first and H Streets last summer.

Edwin Weihe of the Division of Fine Arts is at present engaged in drawing the architect's plans for the addition to the Student Union Building, under the direction of Professor Norris I. Crandall, Director of the Division. The tentative layout includes a large lunch room on the ground floor with provision for a number of tables.

Honorary Activities Fraternity Admits Campus Leader

Seven men, all well known as leaders in various campus activities, were initiated into Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity, at ceremonies held Saturday night in the Theta Delta Chi house. Those initiated were Bradford Swope, Frank Weitzel, William Thomson, William Lyman, Lyman Dishman, William Hanback and Archie Burgess.

Omicron Delta Kappa selects, each year, those men who have done meritorious work in the several fields of extra-curricular endeavor. The local Circle was installed at George Washington in the spring of 1929.

Dr. Balfour showed many interesting slides on the technique of the various types of operations for gastric and duodenal ulcer, also discussing the advantages and disadvantages of the many operations.

Dr. Bloedorn gave a welcoming address to Dr. Balfour and expressed his regrets that Dr. Marvin, president of the University, and Dr. Hunter, acting dean of the Medical School, were unable to be present because of illness. Dr. Davis, president of the Medical Society, also welcomed Dr. Balfour and spoke of his prominence as Chief of the Division of Surgery at the Mayo Foundation and Professor of Surgery at Mayo Foundation Graduate School of Minnesota.

STUDENT UNION SUGGESTIONS

Now that the drive for the new Student Union Building is under way it will not be amiss to begin to consider seriously the question of just what the building should contain in the way of equipment and furnishings.

From various sources have come suggestions which The Hatchet regards as valuable. Though not specifically mentioned in the "prospectus" of the building the idea of a cooperative bookstore immediately presents itself when one is considering possibilities. Such an establishment, which could be run in connection with other business enterprises in the building, could furnish both new and used textbooks to the students at considerable saving of time, trouble and money, and would also offer a place for the disposal of texts by students who had no further use for them.

The store could conceivably be run by University students who might thus augment their income or exchange their services for tuition.

From a member of the faculty has come the suggestion that several tiers of lockers be installed in the basement of the building which could be rented by the students for a nominal sum. It is not anticipated that all students would want to make use of such privileges and therefore there is no question of having to install 5,000 lockers, but a reasonable number of them would be of great convenience to those students who do not have a place to deposit belongings.

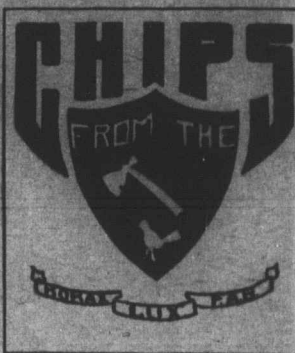

Professor Yeager and the Public Speaking Department suggest that a movable stage be installed at one end of the ballroom, which could be used for dramatic presentations. Such equipment would fill a great gap in the facilities of the University.

These various suggestions would all help to make our new addition a complete student union.

STUDENT UNION SPEAKERS

During the two-day drive for funds to be used for furnishing our new Student Union Building the work of one group in the University is worthy of particular notice. The Public Speaking Department, under the direction of Professor Willard Hayes Yeager, practically organized and put into effect the plan for canvassing the various classes.

Much credit is due Professor Yeager and to the several students who gave up their time and efforts in order to make this drive a success, and when our dreams have become realities and we are enjoying the manifold benefits to be derived from such facilities let us not forget this loyal group.

Now that the student body is coming through with the money for the Student Union, we are antsy that we will soon have some place to sit between classes without the danger of being asked to remove ourselves from some one else's automobile just as we are preparing for a little nap.

Dick Rollo was almost embarrassed once when an elderly lady approached and remarked, "Pardon me, please, but I wonder if I could borrow my car for a few minutes."

But that will soon be a thing of the past, and the Quigley's Penny Matching Society will have a finer place in which to hold their daily meetings.

In an honest attempt at assisting those noble people of the Public Speaking Department who talked and used up some of the class time, we jumped up wildly at the conclusion of each speech and shouted, "Here, give me one of those pledge cards." The effect was good, and we managed to get back all of the cards that we signed except one, which we didn't try for.

We are in receipt of the following communication:

My dear Mr. Dick Rollo:
Since you seem to encourage contributions and likewise puns (where did that idea come from?) I wonder if you have heard about the Chemistry Lab instructor whom the Professor asked to stir up a little friendly rivalry, competition, etc., among his charges. "The fools have buried the 'X' so deep already they can't even dig it up that much."

And (this is a good one) the girl who got a goose egg on an exam in the same subject and remarked, "Well, I'm at the bottom of the class and that's something of a feat."

Multe cum Chips, Fuller Nutts.

For the benefit of the half-dozen or so persons who possibly have not heard of it, we wish to announce publicly that the Kappas have a new gas range.

The members of the organization spend their spare time boiling water on it. Don't encourage any of them on the subject or you will be forced to listen to a minute description of the thing.

Maude Lynne has a nice little bit of verse entitled "Revolution." Men came from monkeys was the cry A century or so ago, And frightened folk in wild dismay Said there were things one shouldn't know.

Men came from monkeys was the cry That so perturbed the people then, But co-eds have gone much farther now By making monkeys out of men.

O-KAY—"And a little child shall lead them."

In the course of the wanderings of our imagination, we have recently been toying with the idea of the possibilities in changing B. D. Van Evera to B. Van D. Evera.

This continual gibber about how each and every one of us is going to sink every exam is now becoming somewhat hackneyed if not actually boring. We don't seem to be able to get much of a kick out of hearing the woes of all those who should be studying.

Subjects for interfraternity and interfraternity debates are announced with the additional news that there will be no admission charge. Poor old Corcoran Hall will be packed to the doors with crowds waiting outside on the street for the results.

A first-class dinner party by the Law School, open to all at two bucks per, is announced. Dick Rollo intends to be among those present in the expectation of picking up one or two jokes that are funny.

And the Med School, not to be outdone in the way of eating, sponsors an Alumni Dinner in Philly. This outfit must have guessed our designs, but we were not particularly anxious anyhow.

DICK ROLLO.

Perfect Harmony

"Daughter," said father sternly, "I don't like that young man you go out with."

"Yeah?" retorted the daughter. "Well, don't worry, you're poison to him, too."

Shift!

Taxi-driver: "My, what a clutch!"
Voice (from rear): "Say, you, keep your eyes to the front. This is none of your business."

The Best System

"Was he excited when he asked to kiss you?"
"No, he was calm and collected."

a nominal charge of $1.00 from each student for the test. All papers will be graded by the committee and the results will be compiled in book form each year and reported in confidence to the deans of all Class A medical schools in America by March 15th. Consequently each medical school after that date will have information regarding the rating of any applicant who has taken such test. Students at George Washington and elsewhere have already received notice from medical schools, in reply to inquiries for application blanks for admission, that they will be required to take the tests on February 13th in order that their applications may receive consideration.

Every George Washington student who expects to apply for admission to any medical school next fall should take the test here on February 13. He should bring the fee with him. Students are requested by Professor Moss to be in their seats not later than 2:45 p. m. so that full directions may be understood, fees collected, papers distributed and all may be ready to begin the test simultaneously at 3:00 p. m. without confusion and under the most favorable conditions for all.

SEEMINGLY IMPOSSIBLE OCCURS AS C. U. FIVE DEFEATS COLONIALS

Colonial Supporters Amazed As Rivals Score Decisive
Triumph At Brookland

If you had told a George Washington University basketball fan that his team was going to do anything but "smother" Catholic University's five in the season's first clash of the traditional rivals last Tuesday night at the Brookland gym, he would have thought you to be slightly "under the weather."

If you had told him that the game might develop into a close contest, he would have thought you to be insane. And if you even mentioned that the Colonials might lose to the C. U. quintet, he would have asked the police to have you locked up as a dangerous lunatic.

And yet, the last of the three apparent absurdities became a reality a week ago last night, when, to the amazement of some 800 loyal G. W. fans who trekked to the C. U. gym, their team was forced to take a decisive defeat from the Cardinals to the tune of 31 to 24, in a game which may rightfully be called the biggest upset on a local court in recent years.

The C. U. team, with its record of only one victory as against four defeats, on paper had as much right to defeat G. W., boasting four victories in five starts, as Central High would have of beating Notre Dame! By no stretch of the imagination could C. U. be figured to even give the Colonials a close run for their money. The uncertainty of sport was never better demonstrated to all who witnessed the game that night.

Fans Anticipate Win

After the freshman victory in the preliminary game, Colonial supporters were envisioning the pleasant sensation of leaving the gym of their rivals some seventy minutes later with two Cardinal scalps under their belts. Their cry, after the final whistle of the frosh encounter, was a sarcastic, challenging taunt, "Now bring on the varsity!"

The story of the varsity game has been told a hundred times on the campus. The play of the G. W. five—its woeful start, its encouraging rally, a close third quarter, and its final tragic end has been told time and again, while its parallel—the feelings of G. W. fans in the stands—their surprise at the start, their reassurance at the rally, their wonderment toward the end, and their final dumbfounding is the only logical one.

Though it might have been expected, over-confidence did not appear to be manifest in the Colonial players, and the natural question on everyone's lips was "What happened?" The answer is hard to give. The Buff and Blue boys fought just as hard as their rivals, and they took just as many shots—but therein lies the tale. It sounds almost superfluous to explain but the inability of the boys in Buff and Blue to "cash in" on the simplest chances and the almost uncanny ability of their opponents to sink any and all kinds of shots is the story of the ball game.

Just C. U.'s Night

From any angle of the floor, the Cardinals seemed able to find the basket, a majority of their nine field goals being made at long range while the num-

Reports On Winter Sports Given At W. A. A. Meeting

The regular meeting of the Women's Athletic Association was held Thursday evening, January 15, at 7 o'clock. Roberta Wright, president, called the meeting to order and disposed of the regular business routine. A brief report of the winter sports was given by each manager; rifle by India Bell Corea, swimming by Edith Brookhart, and basketball by Katherine McCallum. Since it had been decided to change the major letters and also have a separate manager's letter, the association voted on the new designs.

The association is also to sponsor a lecture-dance recital given by Miss Prokosh of New York City, who is an authority on dancing. The recital will be given at the Arts Club on the evening of February 11, at 8:15 o'clock. Tickets are now being sold by all members of the board and managers of sports.

An interesting part of the meeting was a talk by Ruth H. Atwell on "Physical Education in Cairo." Miss Atwell spent a year in Cairo and had a most interesting experience teaching "American Physical Education" in the schools there.

Y. W. C. A. Plans Meeting

The Y. W. C. A. is planning its second big meeting of the year for Tuesday, February 10, at 12 o'clock in Corcoran Hall 29. Inge von Lewinski, the program chairman, is arranging the program. All women in the University are invited to attend. At this meeting, the girls who have signified their wishes to serve on certain committees will be so assigned.

Varsity Swimmers Train To Meet Real Competition

Fourteen Report For Practice at Ambassador Pool

Coach Albert Lyman announces that for the first time in several years a real effort is being made to put a good swimming team in the field to compete with representative teams in this part of the country. A call has been issued for all men who wish places on the squad to report at the Ambassador Hotel pool at 7:00 o'clock for practice on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings each week. About fourteen men have already reported for practice and several more men are needed to compete as diverse or breast-stroke swimmers. Eligible swimmers are urged to report as soon as possible, as the varsity team will be tentatively selected shortly to enter the matches to be sponsored during the last part of this month by the Washington Swimming Club.

The squad now practicing is making a fine showing and it is expected that matches will be scheduled with Washington and Lee, University of Virginia, Johns Hopkins University, Lehigh University, Western Maryland, and probably other eastern schools. It is also planned to enter the George Washington University team in the championship matches to be held in March under the auspices of the American Amateur Athletic Union.

Swimmers of former years who are back for places on this year's team include Jack Polkinhorn, Henry Amos, Geoffrey Creyke and William Thomson. Newcomers include Oliver Pagan, "Dutch" Bowman, William Heintz, Al Baine, Gordon Potter, M. L. Burnside and H. Kyle.

Coach Lyman was captain of the George Washington University Swimming Team of five years ago, fancy diving being one of his specialties. He states that the squad is showing a fine spirit, and he expects them to make a very creditable showing when they enter inter-collegiate competition next month.

G. W. Riflemen Enter Contest

The National Individual Intercollegiate Rifle Championship, which is sponsored by the National Rifle Association, is now under way. It began January 1, and will continue through February 1, 1931.

George Washington University has entered five men: Barr, Boudinet, Jackson, And and Melcer. Excellent results are expected of Barr and Boudinet. College throughout the country have entered their best marksmen.

The winner of the match is awarded a silver medal, and those placing second through tenth receive bronze medals. Last year several of G. W.'s entries, including Captain Harrel, received bronze medals. It is hoped that the G. W. marksmen will come out as well or better this season.

Injury Puts Fred Mulvey Out of Game For Season

It was a costly victory the Colonial basketball team won over Randolph-Macon last Thursday night at Ashland, Va., inasmuch as a sprained ankle suffered by Fred Mulvey, stellar guard, has put that valuable member of the quintet out of the game for the season. Mulvey, who participated in every game the team had played to Thursday, had established himself as an important cog in the machine which had won five of its first seven games. Though not a consistently high scorer, his floor work was a continual asset to his teammates and his loss will be severely felt. It is thought that Johnny Fenlon will take his place at guard.

COLONIALS TRIM 2 VIRGINIA FIVES

Resuming the form they had flashed all season, prior to the C. U. disaster last Tuesday, the Colonial basketballers chalked up two more victories to their credit last Thursday and Friday nights when, on a tour through Virginia, they took the measure of both the Randolph-Macon and Virginia Medical College quintets. The victories brought their season's record to six victories in eight games, Navy and Catholic University being the only two teams to defeat the Buff and Blue this year.

With Capt. Jack Connor and Forrest Burgess showing the way, the Colonials trimmed Randolph-Macon in the first of their two games by a 46-to-33 score at Ashland on Thursday night. Burgess, finding his scoring eye after a disheartening night at C. U., found the cords for 18 points, sending eight goals through the basket from the floor and counting twice from the foul line. His leader was right behind him, however, scoring seven double-deckers for a total of 14 points.

Taking the lead at the start, the Colonials were never to be denied. They

Championship Games To Begin

The championship class basketball games will begin the week of February 16. Games will be played on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, of the first week, and Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday of the following week, in the George Washington gym. Opening games begin at 7:30 p. m.

First and second teams of each class will be chosen and will draw for the order of competition. On the final date a combination Junior-Freshman and Senior-Sophomore team, made up of the best players of the four classes, will play. From this group the honorary varsity will be picked.

FRESHMAN FIVE FLASHES POWER TO WIN 4 GAMES

Emerson, Bliss, Bethesda, and
C. U. Frosh Fall Before Yearlings; Beaten Once

With a sensational victory over the Catholic University freshmen the highlight of a week's brilliant work, the Colonial Cup basketballers hopped into the limelight of the city's younger court teams by a victorious march which carried them to victory in four straight games with nary a defeat. After trouncing their traditional rivals in the preliminary to the varsity game on Tuesday, Coach Len Walsh's charges kept up the good work by registering over Bethesda High, Emerson Prep, and the Bliss Electrical School, in no game being extended. So far, the frosh have lost but one game this year—a thriller to Eastern High, present leader of the interhigh series.

Possibly their greatest work was registered in the Catholic U. gym Tuesday night, when opposed by a formidable opponent, the Cubs gave their supporters a thrill by walking away with the C. U. yearlings by a 33-to-17 score. With Paul Brown and Billy Woodward leading the way, the young Colonials were not to be denied. Although a close first half found them leading by only a scant margin, the eventual winners stepped out shortly after intermission to sew up the game, taking a commanding lead soon after the resumption of hostilities.

Burgess Out On Fouls Only Twice In Long Career

Only once in seven years, before last Tuesday night, had Forrest Burgess, sensational forward of the G. W. basketball team, been banned from a game in which he was playing through the medium of the foul route. Through four years of high-school basketball, two years of college and a year in amateur ranks, Burgess had made four fouls in a game to force his retirement but once, and oddly enough, likewise in the Catholic U. gym, when in 1929 four fouls were called on him while playing with the American University team against C. U.

Women's Varsity Rifle Team Named For Year

Five-Year Champions Have An Excellent Schedule Planned

The women's varsity rifle team has been chosen by its coach, Helen Taylor. Those selected are: Roberta Wright, India Bell Corea, Virginia Sheffield, Emira Johnson, Kitty Junkin Lane, Lois Corea, Carolyn Seibert, Marie Clarke, Evelyn Kerr, and Josephine Raynor.

The team has shot three matches this year, one with the University of Louisiana, another with the G. W. Alumnae, and the third with Penn State.

Of the three, G. W. won the first, 496-472, lost the second by a close score of 493-491, and the results from the third have not yet been received. Other matches to be shot this year are to be with Drexel Institute, University of Pennsylvania, University of Washington, University of Maryland, Carnegie Tech, and Cornell.

In February, the G. W. team will shoot to maintain the intercollegiate championship which it has held for the past five years. The team is already the permanent owner of the trophy offered by the Dot and Circle Club and the holder of the N. R. A. trophy for the year.

Rifle practice will be discontinued through exams and will be resumed Tuesday, February 3.

Former Cheerleader Is Called To Front Again

Deeply sensing the lack of a G. W. cheerleader, a role he had held two years ago, sent Darrell Crain spontaneously catapulting onto the floor in front of the George Washington cheering section at the Catholic University gym last Tuesday night to lead some 800 Colonial fans in impromptu "locomotives" for their basketball team. Present in numbers and spirit to a sizeable quantity, the G. W. rooters were unable to emulate their rival backers in the C. U. stands who were being put through their routine of yells by a regular cheerleader, until Crain's sudden appearance. A spectator from the start of the game, Crain realized the lack of union among his fellow-students and earned himself not a few plaudits for his impromptu efforts which brought forth tangible results in the form of an ear-splitting and uniform cheer which he led.

The FAVORITE tobacco of the Dartmouth man is...

If you want to know the Dartmouth man's favorite tobacco, watch him as he loads his pipe between classes in front of Dartmouth Row. Watch him as he strolls along Wheelock Street and pulls the familiar blue tin of Edgeworth out of his pocket.

A pipe and Edgeworth—this is the smoking combination that has won the college man. Harvard, Cornell, Michigan, Stanford, Illinois... all agree with Dartmouth. Natural merit has made Edgeworth the favorite smoking tobacco in America's leading colleges and universities.

College men everywhere respond to the appeal of pipes packed with cool, slow-burning Edgeworth. Be guided by their choice; try Edgeworth yourself. Taste its rich natural flavor that is enhanced immeasurably by Edgeworth's distinctive "eleventh process." You will find Edgeworth at your nearest tobacco shop—15¢ the tin. Or, for generous free sample, address: Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va.

KARPMAN SPEAKS TO LIBERAL CLUB

"Student Versus Faculty" Is Subject of Address; Future Speakers Prominent

"Student versus Faculty" was the title of a paper delivered by Dr. Benjamin Karpman, before a meeting of the Liberal Club held on Monday evening, January 12, in Corcoran Hall. Dr. Karpman, who is on the staff of the psychiatric clinic at St. Elizabeth's and a professor in the Medical School at Howard University, gathered the material for this psychological study of student-faculty relationship from observations upon his medical students. Dr. Karpman blamed our educational system and the faculty for the artificial, formal, and antagonistic relationship between student and faculty. He pointed out as evidence of the inimical relationships, that cheating at an examination is accepted socially, and that no student ever regrets after being caught, rather regrets his bad luck and hopes to be more clever next time. Dr. Karpman urged that greater intimacy should be fostered between student and teacher, and that the teacher, especially, should attempt to understand the student psychologically. He favored grading on basis of effort rather than by numerical averages in tests, since accomplishments in any course depend upon a student's psychological make-up. A brilliant student might spend an hour daily on each subject, yet make an A in one and a D in another. Such inconsistent results of equal effort indicate that a student's interests, capacities, and background have a great influence in determining his grade. For these reasons Dr. Karpman favors grading on basis of effort rather than upon numerical average. He pointed out that our best universities have the smallest teacher-student ratio, giving Harvard, with 1.8 as an example. Such a small ratio gives ample opportunity for the teacher to become intimately acquainted with the student and thus be in a position to determine his needs and interests. Less than 5 per cent of students who drop out of college do so because of lack of intelligence. It is very often a lack or inability of adjustment to new conditions which precipitates a failure.

Argue Value of Intelligence Tests
A heated discussion arose over the value of intelligence tests. Dr. Karpman deprecating their value because, in his opinion, they did not give any information upon the student's emotional constitution, his "psyche," the most important factor determining whether or not a student could fit himself to the collegiate social milieu.

On February 4, in Corcoran Hall, 17, Dr. William E. Zeuch, president of Commonwealth College, and formerly a professor at University of Wisconsin, will speak before the Liberal Club "Education for a Labor World." This is the fascinating and unique story of the beginning and wonderful progress of Commonwealth College, at Mena, Arkansas.

This college is anomalous in that all college property is owned and operated by resident students and faculty; students and faculty must render four hours labor beside their academic work; examinations are never given; professors and students have equal power in all matters concerning the college, and emphasis is laid upon building a capacity to serve the labor movement.

Four Speakers for February 13
On February 13, the Liberal Club will sponsor a symposium on "The Danville Strike, Epitome of the Industrial Revolution in the South." The club has obtained speakers representing the United Textile Workers of America, Woman's Trade Union League, and has invited a mill operator and a Labor Department Conciliation agent. All speakers or proposed speakers have been "on the scene" and taken an active part in the dispute.

Future programs include Dr. T. S. Harding, Oscar Ameringer, head of Illinois Mine Workers, and Judson King, arch-foe of power interests.

The club has undertaken the distribution to unemployed men and women of a magazine called "The Unemployed," published by the League for Industrial Democracy, as a non-profit venture to aid the unemployed. It is sold to the unemployed at cost, 5 cents, and they sell it to the public at 10 cents. Over 75,000 copies were sold in New York City in December. The Liberal Club distributes these magazines daily at one o'clock at 620 Pennsylvania Avenue N. W. Through the press and radio, the club is making appeals to the public to buy this magazine.

Feminine Fencers Lost When They Find Room For Their Art Occupied

The Fencing Club found itself homeless last Thursday night. When the feminine fencers, heavily laden with fells and boxes of masks, enthusiastically threw open the door to the back room of Building 15, they were met with a hushed darkness. A grinding noise from within out short their light-hearted raillery.

"It's a motion picture," gasped the leader, falling back.
Shivering council was held by the back steps. Should they break boldly in and demand their room? Or should they practice their dangerous art here under the moon on the chilly wastes of the George Washington campus? Finally they decided to reconnoitre around by the front door.

Figures creaked along the hall and down the steps to the big room. The door was cautiously cracked open. From within a head suddenly stuck out. After inquiring what was the matter, and being informed, it said in a slow, gentlemanly tone:

"That's too bad, now. This is a Geological Society giving a motion picture. I'll see what I can do, though. The only reason they put me here, I guess, was to see that no one got away with the coats." And casting a bland eye, first on the girls, and next on the coats, still on their racks, the head withdrew.

A moment later another young man came through the door. "If you will follow me I can show you a room," he promised mysteriously. Swords were at hand, but the astonished fencers proved amenable.

Accordingly, they were led to the Library Building, rushed up several flights of stairs, and gallantly left to clear a small room for their activities. By 9 o'clock the exhausted lady musketeers were ready to begin their exercise and, zest being added by the close quarters given them by the piled chairs and the blackboards, made a very enjoyable evening of it.

Boesch Receives Scout Award

Paul Boesch, freshman in the Junior College at George Washington, has been awarded one of 52 scholarships for outstanding Boy Scouts of the country. The award, which was made by the executive board of the Boy Scouts meeting in New York, consists of $100 to be used for his education. The scholarship is given to Eagle Scouts under 21 who have contributed unusual service to their communities. Boesch is an honor graduate of Western High School and a member of Washington's Troop 13.

Student Notices

The next regular meeting of the Radio Club will be on Saturday, February 7. The club station will be in operation at that time with a new transmitting tube to replace the old one.

The next meeting of the Drama Club will be held on February 4, instead of on January 28, as was previously announced in The Hatchet.

Dean Ruediger has moved back into his office in the Education Building, and may be consulted there.

There will be a Hatchet on February 4. All reporters must get their assignments this week and have copy in before Sunday, February 1.

Zahn Flasher Form

The following night the Colonials, with wily "Otto" Zahn showing the way, scored a decisive triumph over the Virginia Medical College five at Richmond, scoring as they pleased to annex a 44-to-27 victory. Zahn counted 13 points of his team's total to lead the scoring, while Burgess and Conner counted 11 and 10, respectively.

A fast-passing attack dazzled the Medicos from the start and had them gasping for breath as the half ended with the Colonials in the front, 17 to 10. However, in the final ten minutes the Pilemen literally ran wild, handling the ball with such remarkable rapidity that their opponents never had a look-in.

team took a hand in the scoring, Fouts, Olverson, Davidson, Brown, and Farhood all scoring six or more points.

A flawless defense, moreover, was notable in the yearlings' victory, but four field goals being made by the opposition during the entire game. Only Tyrell, of the losers, was able to pocket more than one field goal and he was held to two. Five free throws enabled Bethesda to reach the double-figure total.

Emerson Prep Beaten

Continuing their brilliant defensive work and scoring at will, the Cubs took their third opponent of the week into camp on Friday, when they trounced Emerson Prep's five, 30 to 13. Not one field goal did Emerson score during the entire first half, two free shots by Hadin saving them from a complete shut-out as the intermission arrived with the Frosh leading, 12 to 2. With a safe lead, Coach Len Walsh inserted a raft of substitutes in the final twenty minutes, but though the Prepmen scored more easily, the Colonials were never caught.

Once again the scoring was equally divided among the winners, Fouts, Davidson, and Woodward all finding the basket with similar consistency.
